Public regulation and presence are a general feature of today's economy. Public and administrative law thus has a considerable impact on its affairs.

We can handle all aspects of this legal field, with a particular focus on public procurement and PPP, urban development and environmental law, legislative drafting and structuring of public action.

A comprehensive practice with specific accents

We also deal with other fields of public law, such as government-owned assets, financing of public projects, public utilities, licences, permits, authorisations and regulatory affairs.

We regularly represent clients in litigation and procedures in these matters, including administrative appeals and the specialised public law courts being the Constitutional Court and Council of State.

We also have a broad understanding of the manner in which public authorities intervene in the economy: state aid, public holdings, inter-municipal entities, economic expansion laws, public service concessions, management agreements, etc.
