In our increasingly digital world, the use of technology and data is critical for business growth and innovation. Simont Braun specialises in all aspects of Tech and Data Law to help businesses navigate this ever-changing regulatory landscape. Our lawyers are tech-savvy team-players specialised across various fields from Privacy over (Fin)Tech to IP. Together, we offer a multidisciplinary approach to answer to our clients' needs.

Privacy and cybersecurity

The way data is accessed, processed, shared and protected is key to every organization. Privacy and data protection come into play with all new technological developments. At the same time cyber security issues arise due to increasing hacking and phishing attempts.

Simont Braun's team has developed specific expertise on all privacy and data related topics. Our lawyers advise clients on GDPR compliance of technical measures, on IP or trade secret protection of data sets and assist businesses in case of a data breaches.

Tech innovation

Developing a new product or software leads to a complex network of legal and technical restrictions. Designing the right contracts with external service providers may prove to be crucial for IT projects or the development of new software. As sector regulations multiply, compliance becomes a key-aspect for technology development.

Simont Braun assists several reputed high tech companies and has helped them often from the start to build their business in a challenging legal environment. Our services include regulatory analysis, contractual work and litigation.
